Greg Rooney has been a practising mediator in Australia since 1991. He has mediated more than 1,500 disputes in a diverse range of conflicts including multi-party disputes involving government institutions, commercial and industrial disputes, agricultural disputes, franchise disputes, matrimonial disputes and disputes involving conflict in the workplace. He retired from legal practice in 1996 to practise full time as a mediator.

Greg is a Director of the Mediator Standards Board that regulates the Australian National Mediation Accreditation Scheme.

Greg has conducted in-house dispute resolution training focusing on fluid (soft) skills for a number of public and private Australian institutions. He has lectured in mediation, dispute system design and project Alliancing in a number of Australian universities, including the University of Queensland and Southern Cross University.

For the last eleven years Greg has mediated over 200 face-to-face mediations between religious leaders and individual victims of sexual abuse in the Catholic, Anglican and Protestants religions in Australia. He currently mediates meetings between victims of abuse within the Australian Military and senior ADF officers through the Defence Abuse Response Taskforce (DART) within the Federal Attorney General's Department. He is currently working for the South Australian Government to introduce a similar program for the South Australian Police Force.

He, together with two colleagues, Barbara Wilson and Margaret Ross, conducts annually a 5 day mediation retreat for experienced and novice mediators in Tuscan, Italy.

He has published papers on the rise of commercial mediation in Australia, the challenges of mediating sexual abuse cases, the use of intuition in mediation, Project Alliancing and a number of other mediation based topics in a number of national and international journals copies of which can be downloaded from his web site.
