Stetson University College of Law

Miami/Fort Lauderdale, Florida

Even simple divorces can put an emotional and financial strain on a family. The role of our mediators is to help two people peacefully and cost-effectively end their marriage. In mediation, parties determine for themselves what is important and, ultimately the direction of their lives. Whether you are going through a separation, dissolution, paternity issue, or other family law related matter, our mediators provide an organized framework that will make it easier for the parties to reach an agreement. Mediators are not permitted to provide legal advice and the parties always have the opportunity to seek legal advice if they desire. The ultimate decision-making authority rests solely with the parties. Let us mediate your case and lessen the anxiety and uncertainty of litigation.
